SAFEGUARDING THE LONG-TERM HEALTH OF OUR BUSINESS

No Climb Products Ltd (trading as Detectortesters) are committed to safeguarding the long-term health of our business through the proactive use of Business Continuity Management (BCM) disciplines. By adopting this approach, we are ensuring that – as far as reasonably practicable – the business remains able to fulfil its obligations to customers, suppliers, shareholders, regulatory bodies and other stakeholders in the event of an unforeseen event, which threatens the ability of the organisation to deliver its products and services.

- To appoint a Business Continuity Manager.
- To make available appropriate resources to enable the Business Continuity Manager to fulfil the required duties.
- To assist with the promotion and assessment of the level of BCM awareness within the organisation.
- To make available members of the Board and senior management as appropriate to assist at a strategic level with ongoing Business Continuity Management.
- To embrace and discuss, as necessary, the conclusions and recommendations presented by the Business Continuity Manager.
- Business Continuity Team to review the suitability of the Business Continuity Plan every 12 months unless major changes in the business model or systems of control occur sooner.
